I am aware that the German Federal Foreign Office regularly publishes travel advice, safety advice, and travel warnings.

- Travel advice contains information about, among other things, the entry requirements of a country, medical information, and special features of criminal or customs law. This is regularly reviewed and updated.
- Safety advice draws attention to special risks for travellers and Germans living abroad. This may contain recommendations to avoid or limit travel. If necessary, it may be advisable to refrain from not absolutely necessary or all travel. The safety advice is also regularly reviewed and updated.
- Travel warnings contain an urgent appeal by the Federal Foreign Office to refrain from travel to a country or a region of a country. They are only issued if an acute danger to life and limb makes it necessary to warn against travel to a country or the specific region of a country. A travel warning is rarely issued. Germans living in this country may be asked to leave the country.

Travel and safety advice as well as travel warnings are based on the information available to the Federal Foreign Office at the given time and considered trustworthy. However, no guarantee can be given for the correctness and completeness of this information and no liability can be accepted for any damage that may occur.

The Federal Foreign Office also strongly recommends taking out health insurance with repatriation insurance when travelling abroad.

Before I start my travel and during my stay abroad I will regularly inform myself about the current safety situation, either on the homepage of the Federal Foreign Office or via the "travel app" of the Federal Foreign Office.

If I travel, I do so at my own request and at my own risk.

I undertake to inform the International Office immediately if I do not start, stop, or interrupt my travels in my host country due to a change in the safety situation or a current travel warning from the Federal Foreign Office.
