

How to apply to the OHM International Summer School: a step-by-step guide to using the application portal

Applying

You can apply via our Application portal for the OHM International Summer School 2023.

You must first register on the platform in order to begin the application process.

Our summer school programme is designed for students in various subject areas. Please read the information below to see if one of our summer school courses is right for you. The Fundamentals of Hydrogen Technology course is also suitable for graduates of some master's programmes.

The following documents must be submitted with your application:

- Short cover letter
- A CV presented in chronological order and without any gaps
- Confirmation of enrolment (graduates should submit the final official transcript for their master's degree)
- If applying for the Exploring the Biomechanics of Rowing - Simulation and Measurement course: current transcript of records

You may also submit additional documents like your university entrance qualification, for example.

The application period ends on 30 April 2023.

Important: The summer school courses have a limited number of places. So being quick can pay off!

Admission

After receiving your application, your documents will be reviewed and we will reply as promptly as possible.

You will receive an invoice for the participation fees along with your acceptance. Please transfer the payment for the fees to the account on the invoice within two weeks. Your place in the course is only assured after timely payment is received.

If you have any questions about the application process, please contact us at ohm-iss@th-nuernberg.de at any time.

Step 1. Follow the “Application portal” link on the “OHM International Summer School” webpage .
